

SAMARA JAMES

PRECIOUS METALS SOURCING POLICY

Samara James are able to reassure customers about the absence of any adverse environmental, social and business impacts in the extraction of precious metals.

Samara James will not knowingly supply precious metals which in their extraction have harmed the environment, damaged communities or infringed labour standards or human rights.

Samara James only purchase precious metals from reputable suppliers who also endorse the above statement for use in the crafting of our jewellery. We only source materials from companies who have a proven track record in this industry and who have systems which show the traceability of all materials to ensure that they meet the strict conditions of the London Bullion Market Association.
